Ballet On Wheels Performs in Honor of Black History Awareness Month on UT Campus

Ballet On Wheels, Theatre of Dance, Memphis' only African American, nonprofit dance school, will bring their pre-professional youth dance cast to the University of Tennessee Health Science Center. The dance performance entitled, "In the Meantime... Just Dance-Reloaded," is an exploration of the African-American experience through R&B music and dance tradition and will focus on various circumstances and episodes African Americans sometimes have dealt with as seen through dance.

Sponsored by UT, "In the Meantime... Just Dance - Reloaded" is a collaborative of dance pieces involving love, life, redemption and being "in the balance". We are excited about the opportunity to showcase and present during Black History Month to the students at UT and the community in general, said Chauniece Conner, Artistic Director. The show will feature music by Incognito, Anita Baker, Ray Charles, and Moses Hogan, to name a few. The audiences attention will be captured by classical ballet, modern and neo classical dance styles.

The concert will take place Tuesday, February 12, 6:00 pm in the Student Life Center at 800 Madison Ave. The admission is FREE and is open to all students and the general public. For more information please call 901-870-4348 or visit www.balletonwheels.org.
